

NATIONAL HUMAN TRAFFICKING PREVENTION MONTH TWITTER CHAT WITH CADOJ

DATE & TIME

Thursday, January 20th @ 10:30AM PST

HASHTAG

#EndTrafficking

ABOUT THIS TOOLKIT

January is National Human Trafficking Prevention Month. In an effort to uplift local resources and support survivors, the California Department of Justice is hosting a Twitter chat on Thursday, January 20 at 10:30 AM PT. Every year, there are thousands of reported human trafficking cases across the country. At the California Department of Justice, we know it takes partnership and collaboration to help make a difference. In that spirit, we encourage you to participate in this virtual chat to help highlight our collective efforts to #EndTrafficking.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE

- The Twitter chat will take place using a Q and A format. @AGRobBonta will ask a series of questions at 5- to 8-minute intervals to give respondents time to answer. Each question will lead with Q1, Q2, etc. Respondents should reply using A1, A2, etc. at the beginning of the replies and use #EndTrafficking to track the conversation.
- Answers can be direct replies to @AGRobBonta's tweets, individual tweets, or quote-tweets. Individual and quote-tweets might help your audience find your answers more easily, but will also crowd your feed.
- Remember to use the designated hashtag, #EndTrafficking, so your audience knows you are participating in the chat.
- You are encouraged to reply with links and resources, but you do not need to respond to every question.
- You are welcome to use written or video responses. If you choose to reply using video, it is best to record ahead of time and to upload any video(s) to your media studio before the chat starts.
- @AGRobBonta will be the official moderator and ask all the questions. However, your responses may generate questions from other people online to whom you might also want to respond. Please feel free to do so.
- Want to follow along? TweetDeck is a free tool integrated with your Twitter account that will help you follow the chat using the hashtag, #EndTrafficking.

QUESTIONS

1. There are often misconceptions about what human trafficking is. How do you define it for people who might be affected?
2. What resources are available to people who are being affected by different types of human trafficking or who want additional information to help recognize the signs?
3. Has the COVID-19 pandemic had an impact on your efforts to support survivors? How so?
4. Some people who are affected by human trafficking might not speak English or may have limited English proficiency, what resources are available for them?
5. Stressors like homelessness can further perpetuate human trafficking. What resources are available in your community to help keep survivors sheltered and safe?
6. What other stressors can contribute to human trafficking and how can they be addressed?
7. Data on human trafficking is often difficult to come by. What are some statistics that you think might be helpful for people to know?
8. Many people who are affected by human trafficking come from historically marginalized and underserved communities. What steps can be taken to ensure work to end human trafficking remains connected to broader efforts to advance equity and justice?
9. What is one message you would like to share with someone who might be experiencing human trafficking now?
10. Finally, is there anything else about human trafficking that people should know?
